The scent at the scene enabled the scientist to decipher the science. Although fascinated by the scenic surroundings on the ascent and descent of the mountain, the scientist could not resist the temptation to use the scissors on the scenery.